

NEW EVIDENCE
NOT PRODUCEDTherefore Lorimer Should Retain His Seat Says Majority

HEADED BY SEN. DILLINGHAM

Famous Report on Illinois Senator's Right to His Seat Was Presented to the Senate To-day. Nothing Substantial Was Brought Out.

Washington, D. C., May 20.—Why Senator Lorimer should be permitted to retain his seat in the Senate was set forth to-day by the majority of the Senate special Lorimer committee in their report to the Senate. It was submitted by Chairman Dillingham and had the approval of Senators Gamble and Jones, Republicans, and Fletcher and Johnston, Democrats.

The majority took the position that the Senate having once "solemnly and deliberately" passed upon the charges against Senator Lorimer, he should be permitted to retain his seat unless new and convincing evidence had been produced establishing corruption in his election. Absolutely no new and substantial evidence had been produced at the investigation, the majority said, and consequently they declared the rules of justice required the former judgment of the Senate, upholding Mr. Lorimer, to stand.

The report dealt at length with the evidence in an endeavor to show nothing substantial had been produced against Senator Lorimer. It also reviewed the legal authorities to show that the first investigation of the Senate should be taken as final.

The controlling factor in the action of the Senate in re-opening the case, so the majority said, was reports that a fund of $100,000 was either raised by or through the efforts of Edward Hines, the Chicago lumber man, to secure the election of Senator Lorimer.

The majority rejected the version of Clarence S. Funk, general manager of the International Harvester Co., gave of a conversation he held with Mr. Hines in the Union League club at Chicago just after Senator Lorimer's election. It was during this conversation that Funk claimed Hines asked for a $100,000 contribution to a $100,000 Lorimer fund. The majority said that Mr. Funk's testimony stood uncorroborated either by other witnesses or by any circumstances.

"In view of the fact that it was known to Mr. Hines," said the committee, "that the relations existing between the officers of the International Harvester Co. and Mr. Lorimer were those of opponents rather than friends, it is improbable that he would seek from Mr. Funk, the representative of that corporation, a contribution to aid in the election of Mr. Lorimer; and it is inconceivable that Mr. Hines if guilty of an infamous crime would have unreservedly concealed it under the circumstances described by Mr. Funk, and in any case to a person with whom he had no slight acquaintance and at a time when the election was so fresh in the minds of the public. And particularly when it appears that at no previous time, nor even at that time, did Mr. Hines know whom Mr. Funk preferred for a United States senator."

The committee next considered testimony of William M. Burgess of Duluth, Minn., that C. F. Wiebe, brother-in-law of Mr. Hines, had stated in a smoking room of a sleeping car out of Duluth last March that he had contributed $10,000 to a Lorimer election fund. Contradictory testimony of others on the train was commented upon with this concluding statement:

"With a convincing array of evidence in denial of all the facts contained in Mr. Burgess' testimony, and in view of the improbability that a man of Mr. Wiebe's intelligence and business experience should, in a public place and to an utter stranger, have confessed to having part in an infamous proceeding, this committee can not do otherwise than discard the testimony of Mr. Burgess as proof of any facts alleged."

Attempted Impeachment of McGowan.—In this connection, the committee considered the attempt to impeach the testimony of Charles McGowan, the young Canadian, who testified in Wiebe's behalf. This impeachment was sought by private detectives with a stenographer and telephonic apparatus extending into a room in which Mr. McGowan was supposed to have acknowledged having perjured himself. The committee related an attempted reproduction of the conditions under which the stenographic report of McGowan's conversation was made, and added that the results were so disastrous to the claims made by the stenographer to satisfy the committee that no dependence whatever could be placed upon his testimony.

The committee passed judgment upon some of the prominent features of the first investigation which were the further subject of inquiry at the second investigation.

White's Sensational Testimony.—The sensational account by former State Representative Charles A. White of receiving Lorimer election money was pronounced "as a pure fabrication so far as it relates to the election of Senator Lorimer."

"From a most exhaustive examination and painstaking consideration of all the testimony in the case," the report declared, "the committee finds that White was one of the 33 Democrats who felt justified in voting for Mr. Lorimer in order to break the deadlock which had existed in that body for so many months, and that White's attempt to enrich himself at the expense of his own reputation was the result of an after thought and of a purpose which he had conceived at a time when he had reached the lowest depths of degradation."

The committee advanced the theory that instead of Senator Daniel W. Hoelst having been paid $2,500 for having voted for Lorimer it might have been paid by liquor interests, to defray his election expenses although posing as a "dry."

"From a consideration of all the circumstances," it was explained, "the committee is satisfied that Holstlaw was the candidate of the liquor interests in his senatorial district, and was elected by them; that he was subjected to large campaign expenses, and money being dearer to him than his reputation, and felt convinced that he would not be likely to incur such expenses unless assured that he would be reimbursed. It is conceded that liquor legislation has been one of the prominent and continuing elements in the Illinois general assembly, and John Frederick being a saloonkeeper in the city of Chicago, was naturally a representative of the liquor interests, and money passing from him to Holstlaw is a feature of the case so suggestive, in the absence of any other consideration for its payment, as to raise a strong presumption at least that its payment had some connection with the election of Mr. Holstlaw to the Senate of Illinois."

Holstlaw's Love of Money.

"Everything connected with the evidence given by Senator Holstlaw indicates that his love of money is a consuming passion; that it dominates his judgment, deadens his conscience, and destroys his regard for truth." Taken altogether, the committee said, the testimony indicated to it that Mr. Lorimer's election was the result of political condition and attributable to the corrupt use of money. It dwelt upon the statement that not a single witness had reflected upon Senator Lorimer personally, and that no testimony existed as to a single indiscreet remark or improper action on his part.

Fund Must Have Had Imagination.

In discussing Mr. Funk's testimony that he had heard reports of Mr. Hines activities at Springfield, the majority declared that "such reports must have had birth in Mr. Funk's imagination." Comment was passed on the fact that for many months H. E. Kohlsaat, editor of the Chicago Record-Herald, James Kealey, editor of the Chicago Tribune, Victor F. Lawson, owner of the Chicago News, and Col. Theodore Roosevelt knew of Mr. Funk's version and none saw fit to bring the information to the attention of any person connected with any investigation.

"In fact," the report testified, "it was later in the report 'has been taken cum grano salis by nearly every one who has heard it.' Mr. Funk himself admitted that he thought his story would not be believed."

The committee reported that it did find that Mr. Hines was flattered by being consulted by Senators Aldrich and Penrose in regard to the desire to have some Republican elected to the Senate from Illinois.

"His sense of the importance of the matter," it was said, "was greatly enhanced when he knew that they had been in conference with the president and that Mr. Lorimer's candidacy would not be objectionable to him, and that to be entrusted with the responsibility of making known their wishes and explaining the attitude of the president to Governor Deneen and Mr. Lorimer was a personal honor."

Expert accountants employed by the committee, it was stated, had failed to find any evidence in the books of Edward Hines or Edward Tilden of connection with a Lorimer election fund.

BODIES DOWN

in Chicago Today

PLUNGED INTO OPEN DRAW

Only One of the Victims' Bodies Has Been Recovered and None of Them is Known. Machine Was Travelling Fast.

Chicago, May 20.—Five persons, three men and two women, were drowned this morning when an automobile, in which they were riding, plunged into the Calumet river at the 92d street bridge, and none of the names of the victims has so far been learned. Only one of the bodies has been recovered either. The automobile, which was going about thirty miles an hour at the time of the plunge, turned over as it went into the river.

The accident was caused by the fact that the bridge had been swung to allow a boat to pass. Although the watchman of the bridge shouted a word of warning to the driver of the machine, the latter was unable to put on brakes in time to avert the accident.

INVESTIGATION LIKE
SOCIETY FUNCTION

Fashionable Gowned Women Attend the Inquiry Into Titanic Disaster in London To-day.

London, May 20.—The Board of Trade inquiry into the Titanic disaster has taken on more of the character of a society function than that of an investigation into a great catastrophe. The hall was filled with people to-day. A string of automobiles dropped fashionably-gowned women at the entrance, where they were ushered to reserved seats.

The attorney-general asked Sir Cosmo Duff Gordon more questions to-day about the failure of his lifeboat to go back for persons who were in the water. To the question, "Did you promise the crew five pounds before or after the lifeboat went back to the rescue?" the witness replied, "I never knew that the boat went back."

"Lady Gordon repeated her husband's story, almost without variation. She denied she said anything about going back to the scene of the wreck, while in the lifeboat. Three members of the crew in the lifeboat confirmed her assertion that nothing was said about going back."

GOOD WEATHER; GOOD SHOOTING.

At the Regular Gun-play of Barre Auto

Gun Club.

Ideal weather conditions favored the members of the Barre Auto Gun Club at their regular shoot on the range at the Shepard farm Saturday afternoon and some excellent scores were made. Dr. C. H. Burr of Montpelier led in the day's shooting with a record of 94 birds shattered out of a possible 100. Ben A. Eastman followed a close contender for first honors smashing 91 out of 100 pigeons. Frank Adams' record of 44 birds out of 50 was also one of the more notable records. A few of the contestants were present for the second shoot in the Dupont trophy series. The headlines in this contest stand on the following records:

Hit Birds	Handicap
George Bond	47 50 25
Frank Adams	45 50 0
B. A. Eastman	44 50 4

The first mentioned above comprises the only participants in the competition, who have shot twice in the series of six shoots which decided the winner of the trophy. The story of the day's shoot is told in the following table:

Birds	Hits
Dr. C. H. Burr	94 100
B. A. Eastman	91 100
Frederick Jackson	76 100
Alex. Milne	60 100
George Bond	48 100

CHANCES FOR BOARD OF TRADE.

Discussed By Rev. J. B. Reardon in Sermon Yesterday.

At the morning service of the Universalist church yesterday, Rev. J. B. Reardon, the pastor, took advantage of the church's "education Sunday" to give a talk on the opportunities of a board of trade and particularly the Barre Board of Trade, with which he has become affiliated since coming to Barre this spring. He also urged the members of his church to become identified with the local organization so that Barre might be developed and improved.

He took as his text the Golden Rule and wrought from it a plea for usefulness and co-operation among all the people. Speaking of the possible benefits of the organization he said that the growth of new industries through the efforts of the Board of Trade should result in increasing the city's population three-fold within a reasonable number of years. And new industries, you need, emphasized the speaker. He said that Barre already has one great industry which will last as long as the hills; but if a city is to thrive and prosper it must have diversified industries, and he referred specifically to the chances for a factory for the manufacture of shoes, although there are numerous other industries, he declared, which might be brought to Barre.

Turning, then, to another phase of the possible activities of the Board of Trade, the speaker asserted that it should be the province of the organization to prepare now for a park system—now when the land is low in price compared with what it will be. There should be playgrounds for the children, too; and the speaker mentioned in particular the Church street school, the oldest in the city, which is not provided with a playground for its children, while other schools in the city have not sufficient ground.

Moral questions, in the third place, should come before the Board of Trade, as such questions are likely to arise in a city like Barre. These questions should be threshed out in monthly meetings of the organization, and for that purpose there ought to be an open forum where public matters might be discussed so that voters would come to the polls with proper understanding of the questions.

Again, Rev. Mr. Reardon referred to one work of the Springfield Board of Trade, with which he was formerly connected, a work which had to do with assisting people to build homes. Such was a building and loan association, by means of which people were able to build homes, who otherwise would not be able to get the money. He said that the Springfield association has 500 shares of $200 each, thus making a fund of $100,000 to be loaned to people not able to build alone. He thought Springfield's work in this line might be duplicated in Barre several times over.

Finally, he declared that there is only one reason why all Barre should not be in the Board of Trade; and that is selfishness, or perhaps that is too strong a term, he added. Call it, then, lack of understanding of the scope of a board of trade, which keeps many people out of a community is not appreciated; that members. In conclusion, he said that is why more people do not become there should be a civic conscience, a communal responsibility developed in Barre so that not a single person should be outside of our local organization.

500 THE MARK

For Membership Campaign in the Barre
Board of Trade.

When our manufacturers, merchants, professional men and citizens come forward and take hold of a Board of Trade as they have for the last few days, there is surely something going to be doing. It shows an interest in support of a term, he added. Call it, then, lack of understanding of the scope of a board of trade, which keeps many people out of a community is not appreciated; that members. In conclusion, he said that is why more people do not become there should be a civic conscience, a communal responsibility developed in Barre so that not a single person should be outside of our local organization.

Add our new membership of 275 to our membership of 140. We have a membership of 415 on our Board of Trade. We are going to make it 500 and that right away. We have already had congratulations from outside cities. We ask those that have joined to help get more. Our strength is in our membership more than in our bank account. It's an old saying that money makes the mare go. It's your influence and interest that keeps the old mare in the road on her right course.

It's the duty of every member to ask questions, make suggestions, bring in new things to help with new ideas; they won't all work but some of them will and when this year winds up we will all feel better for having held out a helping hand to Barre's Board of Trade.

After there will be gatherings of the whole Board of Trade for suggestions, kicks and congratulations. Be there and take your part. The more we talk things over the better we become acquainted, the more the Board of Trade helps you, the more you can help the Board of Trade.

This board's development is worthy of a determined try, are you with us for the best that we know how to do?

The wrecked chemical weighs 5000 pounds and cost $6000. The ladder truck weighs $400. Its tiller man, John J. McLaughlin, has a broken shoulder and wounds on face and body. Edward J. Byrnes, James J. Quinn, John J. Gaffney and Edward F. Lynch, also on the ladder truck, have minor injuries.

SHOOTING AT WILDER,
VICTIM MAY DIE

Italian Laborer on International Paper

Co.'s Dam Was Victim and the Shooter Is Still at Large.

Wilder, May 20.—An Italian, employed on the International Paper company's dam near here, was shot in the face, back and arms with a shotgun by a fellow workman alleged to be Virgilio Distepano, at 12:30 o'clock this morning and was rushed to the Hanover, N. H. hospital at once. The physicians called said his wounds would probably prove fatal.

The shooting occurred in the Italian camp and the details have not yet been learned. The victim is said to have been standing at one end of the street through the camp when Distepano came up and shot him three times with a shotgun, after which he ran out of the camp and into the darkness.

The camp boss telephoned for help and physicians and sheriffs responded. A special train was secured to take the wounded man to the hospital and the officers organized a posse to pursue Distepano.

MUSICAL RECITAL ENJOYED.

Pupils of Miss Gladys Gale Entertained

Elders Saturday.

The pupils of Miss Gladys N. Gale gave a recital in the Congregational church Saturday afternoon. All the pupils acquitted themselves very creditably. The selections of the older pupils were very well executed, especially for their age, but the younger ones gave a very good impression.

The class work was remarkable. This work gives a knowledge of the instrument and a foundation in music before they start to play, and prepares the child well for his future piano work. The oldest class did some four-part harmony work on the board. Taken as a whole, the work was a fine success and much credit is due the teacher. The following was the program:

Part 1, class work—Dorothy Smith, Margery Smith, Peppino Castellini, Linda Castellini, Bernice Davis, Doris McWhorter, Marion Abbott, Kathleen Hamel, Lyle Ewen, Wilhelmina Ewen, Teresina Carroll, Marcia Langley, Rachel Robinson, Emma Corti, Lillian Corti.

Part 2, "Song Without Words," Judasohn, Lyle Ewen; "The Clock," Judasohn, Kathleen Hamel; "Under the Maypole," Gurlitt, Bernice Davis; "Rondo," Lichner, Wilhelmina Ewen; "Waltz," Reinhold, Wilhelmina Ewen; "The Merry Farmer," "The Wild Horseman," Schumann, Linda Castellini; "Gopak," Brilante, Lillian Corti; "Schumann," "The Mill," Jensen, Emma Corti; "Gipsy Rondo," Hayden, "Valse," Durand, Lillian Corti; "Barcarole," Jensen; "Simple Confession," Thome, Rachel Robinson.

LAID TO REST TOGETHER.

Alexander S. Bird and James M. Fraser
Long-Time Friends.

After separate funeral services for Alexander S. Bird and James M. Fraser had been held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the remains of the two long time friends were accompanied to the wood cemetery by members of the Congregational church, the Granite Lodge, No. 12, O. S. C., Granite Lodge, No. 26, R. A. M., and the Granite Lodge, No. 26, R. A. M. At the funeral service of the O. S. C. and the funeral service of the R. A. M. used. The funeral services of Mr. Bird and Mr. Fraser were largely attended and it is seldom that a larger body of fraternal lodge men and clergymen has assembled to pay their respects to the memory of dead brothers.

The funeral of Mr. Bird was held at his home, 84 Merchant street, Rev. J. W. Barnett, the Congregationalist pastor, to whom church the deceased belonged, officiating. The bearers were as follows: James Imah and William Cole of Clan Gordon, Peter Alexander and James S. Milne of the Manchester Unity order of Odd Fellows, James Wallace and Harry Smith, representing the Masonic bodies. The casket was banked with a profusion of flowers, which included tributes from the lodges with which Mr. Bird was affiliated.

Funeral services for Mr. Fraser were held at his home, 71 Warren street, at 2 o'clock. Rev. George H. Holt, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating. The bearers were as follows: James Scott and John Muir of the Masons, William Murray and John Stewart from Clan Gordon, Edward Murphy and Thomas Newcombe, who were near neighbors of Mr. Fraser for many years. Many floral tributes testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held by the community as well as individuals.

Among those who were called from a distance to attend the funeral of Mr. Fraser were two sons, James Fraser of Los Angeles, Cal., and William Fraser of Hardwick, and Mrs. Joseph Fraser of Newport, R. I., David G. Bird and Alfred Bird of Springfield, Mass., and Arthur Bird of Berlin came to attend the funeral of their father.

DEATH OF KENNETH LAWSON.

Night After Much Sickness.

The death of Kenneth Lawson, son of Mrs. Anna Lawson, of Washington street, occurred at the City Hospital Saturday night at 9:30 o'clock, after an illness of a little longer than a week. The end came as the result of an attack of double pneumonia, which was complicated with a longstanding affection of Bright's disease. Several months ago the young man underwent an operation for appendicitis in the hospital. He recovered his health sufficiently to resume work and at the time of his last illness he was employed in a stone shed on Smith street. He had been boarding at the home of John Chery, 380 North Main street.

Mr. Lawson leaves besides his mother, a brother living in Windsor, a second brother living in New York, and a young sister, four years old. He was born in Hardwick December 3, 1892, but moved with his parents to Barre when a young boy. He had been employed in Graniteville and Westerville, before coming here the last time.

AT RIGHT ANGLE TO TRACK.

Street Car Took a Little Excursion by Itself To-day.

Car No. 54 of the Barre & Montpelier Traction Co. went off the iron a few rods above the Barre railroad track on South Main street early this morning, and a tie-up of several hours in that section of the road was the result. The car was the second one to make the trip from Montpelier to Barre this morning, and Conductor Coppins and Motorman Anderson were in charge. They were the sole occupants of the car as it left the rails and their only unusual experience was a slight jolt. Neither jumped and the car made no move to tip over after the derailment. The wrecking crew at the car barns was notified and within a short time the car was being righted.

VIGOROUS SNOWSTORM TO DAY

Came and Painted Vermont's Landscape

With Delicate Colorings.

Following a drop in temperature last night, a snow storm set in this morning, and continued for nearly an hour when it trailed off into a drizzle of rain. However, the snow storm was sufficient in length to make a notable addition to Vermont's "late winter," the trees were coated with the winter film and the ground was white with a green background. But to satisfy anyone that this was not a record storm for lateness, it is only necessary to state that Dr. O. H. Reed asserts that he remembers a bigger storm on June 11. Therefore, this May 20 takes a back seat.

The Spectators Chosen.

Boston, May 20.—When Clarence V. T. Richeson, the slayer of Miss Avis Linnell, reflected that he probably had less than twelve hours to live he expressed a desire this afternoon to see his brother, Douglass Richeson of Chicago, who came here last night
